

This is the easiest way to make money betting on the NFL...

Were a month away from CFB kicking off, which means were on to football...

Essentially we are going to be ramping up betting content and edges every week to prep you guys for football season, as we get ready for another winning year.

If you joined for our golf content and don't want to get any of our football stuff, that's cool just click here, and you won't get any more football related emails.

Ok back to today's edge and tip.

This one is simple: Target unders in the passing yards market for starting QBs.

Over the last 4 seasons the under passing yards for all starting QBs entering the season has gone under at nearly a 70% clip.

This includes no losing years, and 2 seasons going over 71%.

The game has changed. Over the last 4 years we have seen a major shift in philosophy.

Almost every team runs their base defensive package as cover two shell, aimed at eliminating the deep ball.

This has led to more runs, lower pass attempts, and lower air yards.

Add in the fact that the market rarely bakes in injuries correctly, along with the possibility that these QBs could lose their starting spot, and you have a major market inefficiency.

Let's take it one step further.

If you take just the QBs who rank outside of the top 8 average draft position (ADP) in Underdog/Draftkings Best Ball drafts this method has been even more profitable.

QB's outside of the top 8 in ADP have gone just 17-38 to the over since 2020.

We have consensus ADP numbers on our site along with season long projections, ADP vs sportsbooks lines, and much more to help you spot value.

We revamped the site to give you guys free access to all the free info I've sent out daily for the last 3 years.

During the season we will have SP+, DVOA, our WR target model and much more on the site.

Here's to another great football season.
